Joint Service Achievement Medal

CAPTAIN BRYON K. FRYER Jr., United States Air Force, distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious achievement as a Cyberspace Operations Development Engineer within the Laboratory for Telecommunication Sciences of the National Security Agency/Central Security Service from June 2013 to December 2013. Captain Fryer was a key designer and developer of a powerful web interface and data repository for media leak analysis. His eagerness and resourcefulness helped field a powerful and intuitive website to thousands of users, months before an enterprise solution existed, enabling the Media Leaks Task Force to provide critical support to the Director, National Security Agency, during a media leaks mitigation effort that reached across the Agency. Additionally, he dedicated long hours to provide immediate support and troubleshooting of the website. His knowledge of the data also enabled him to quickly provide analytical answers to senior leaders. Finally, in leveraging his critical skills and technical expertise to support an effort that required the most complex capabilities to resolve, Captain Fryer delivered those skills and brought to bear the right tools to the mission at the right time. The distinctive accomplishments of Captain Fryer reflect credit upon himself, the National Security Agency/Central Security Service, United States Air Force, and the Department of Defense.
